Re Item V

Reasoned statement with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability;
citations and explanations supporting such statement

The invention starts from the document WO-A-96 08174.

The aim of the invention is to provide a multilayered breathable textile fabric and an article of clothing combining a protective function, flame retardation, thermal insulation and wearing comfort through facilitated perspiration transport, without storing the moisture in the fiber.

This aim is achieved in that the textile fabric comprises at least two separate layers being bonded to each other at predefined positions by means of selected bounding yarns which are part of the layer which faces away from the skin, the bounding yarns being woven or knitted or stitched through the ply on the skin side, the yarns consisting of aramid, the layers having different individual fiber degrees of fineness, the side of the layer that faces the skin having the coarser individual fiber titer and the layer of the side facing away from the skin having the finer individual fiber titer.

No document of the state of the art presents these features. Neither WO-A-96 08174, nor DE-A-195 47 704 discloses at least layers bonded to each other at predefined positions by means of selected bounding yarns which are part of the layer which faces away from the skin, the bounding yarns being woven or knitted or stitched through the ply on the skin side. Also an article of clothing according to claims 14 and 15 which includes this fabric is not anticipated by WO-A-96 08174 and/or DE-A-195 47 704.
